

THE ARBOUR FOUNDATION

More than financial assistance, a unique jumpstart to professional success

In 2005, Pierre Arbour donated a third of his fortune and created a foundation bearing his name to financially support graduate students in three areas that contribute to Quebec's economic growth: administration, engineering and computer science.

A generous scholarship program

The Arbour Foundation offers scholarships at the doctoral, master's and MBA levels to deserving students enrolled full-time in one of its 11 university partners:

Bishop's University, Concordia University, École de technologie supérieure, HEC Montréal, Institut national de recherche scientifique, McGill University, Polytechnique Montréal, Université de Montréal, Université de Sherbrooke, Université du Québec à Montréal, and Université Laval.

After a rigorous selection process, including an individual interview, the Arbour Foundation awards some of the most generous scholarships in the country: $20,000 for a PhD and $13,000 for an MSc or an MBA. Full details of the eligibility and selection criteria are available on the Arbour Foundation website:

Unique support for a successful professional integration

The Arbour Foundation is a community that offers its scholars valuable support for their successful integration into the job market:

A unique mentoring program provided by the Foundation's Directors who have extensive knowledge, experience, and a professional network that they generously share with the scholars;

Internship opportunities at major companies that are valued partners of the Arbour Foundation: ABB, Bombardier, CAE, Pageau Morel, Matrox, Hydro-Québec.

Professional coaching with Ascension to assist our scholars in preparing for internship interviews or other professional opportunities.

Financing technological entrepreneurship through our partnerships with Mitacs, Ivado and QcSE to help start-ups put their ideas to work in the economy.

A French-proficiency program with the Fondation pour la langue française to facilitate the integration of non-French speakers into the Quebec economy.

Networking events where our scholars can exchange with decision-makers, visionaries and business leaders in order to create the economic future of Quebec.

To apply for an Arbour scholarship

Simply go to the Arbour Foundation website (www.fondationarbour.com/bourses) to download and complete the application form, then send it to your home university with all the required supporting documents. The university will make an initial selection and forward the best applications to the Arbour Foundation, which will then invite the best candidates to a personal interview before determining the future recipients.

Join the Arbour community and reap the benefits of this unique and diverse support!

We look forward to welcoming you to the Arbour community.
